With the crankshaft and camshafts locked, disconnect the timing belt tensioner bolt, the tensioner and the timing belt. Inspect the timing belt area for any leaks from the engine that could contaminate the new belt and rectify if required. Carefully remove the camshaft locking plate and, using a counter-hold tool (see below), slacken the camshaft pulleys and replace the old bolts with new ones that come in the INA timing belt kit.

This is a Ford fiesta 1.5Tdc1 2015 (95HP) with just 108.000 km driven. They want to do totally cambelt replacement (the total set with the waterpump and all other parts) and some sort of ribbed belt (PK belt?). So, what are your thoughts? Does it really need this kind of work or are they just trying to put a big hole in my account? P.S.

Renew the timing belt and tensioner - 1.25 and 1.6 litre engines Note:Although the normal interval for timing belt renewal is 100 000 miles or 8 years, it is strongly recommended that the interval suggested above is observed, especially on cars which are subjected to intensive use, ie, mainly short journeys or a lot of stop-start driving. The actual belt renewal interval is very much up to the individual owner, but bear in mind that severe engine damage will result if the belt breaks.

Unlike most cars, which call for timing belt changes around 70,000 to 90,000 miles, the Fiesta requires a timing belt change every 35,000 miles or every three years. Luckily, the Fiesta's timing belt is very easy to find and inspect. Pull away the alternator from the engine and remove the timing cover to get a clear view.
